A LETTER. SPOKANE, WASHINGTON, Oct. 11, '97

Dear Capt. Grabill, Woodstock, Va. You may not be so fortunate as to have among your ex-changes a Spokesman-Review, so I take the liberty of sending you one, thus giv-ing you a sample of extreme northwestrn journalism.

This city, of which the Spokesman-Re view is the exponent and watch dog, is a view is the exponent and watch dog, is a thriving, hustling city of 40,000 population or more. The chief elements comprising the city's population are made up, of the better class of humanity, drawn from many parts of the earth, and the city at once shows evidence of push and energy, which is so characteristic of all Western cities. Its being in such cless proximity to the mining districts renders it the center of considerable wealth.

It is quite common to see handsome residences, coating from *30,000 to $50, 000, and a great number of business blocks of brick and granite, five, six seven and eight stories high, costing from $100,000 to $400,000. The army post, which is about two miles out, and now under contract, and is assuming magnificant proportions, will eventually cost the Government nearly two million dollars.

After having left as quiet a place as Roanoke and coming here and seeing so many residences in course of erection all over the city, I was reminded of the boom of 1890.

I have heard it estimated that there are now at least two hundred and fifty to three hundred houses underway, and the city is not able to accommodate com-fortably its floating population.

It was more than a month before I could secure desirable rooms and board. in a private family, for my wife, baby and self, and after we secured our rooms the landlady had a number of other ap plicants.

While I expect to leave here in a few days for Grand Forks, British Columbia, where I will engage in business, yet it was not without exhaustively investigating the resources and tuture prospects of every advantageous point, north, south, cast and west, and with mature deliberation decided to make the "Pacific Northwest" cided to make the "Pacific Northwest"

So far nothing has been heard of Wildlam Windle who escaped a few weeks ago from the Liunatic Asylum at Staunton. Woodstock people have a lively recollection of she big wholesale lot of fun this gentleman foratshed shan one night several years since while he was confined in the jail here. We suppose it will not soon be forgatten by Mr. Jehn Meyers and Mr. Anthony, the two bonco men who were lecked up in the bonco men who were lecked up in the atecl cells in the jail with the pleasant prospect before them of being rounted by the fire which Windle threatened to start in the jail after having propped.
